

What Critics Are Saying About Pig

"Highly recommended. Along the lines of Nolan's Memento. There is good reason for its film festival success. Barrial's Pig is a thoughtful meditation on consciousness and being, developed as a suspenseful search for self."

- Scott Urban, THE HORROR ZINE

"A splendidly crafted...conceptually ambitious thriller. A story that glistens with philosophical relevance for our current age. Echoes of other noir-tinted puzzle-box films such as The Game, Oldboy, and Memento. The kind of sly little genre experiment that reveals the parched cinematic imagination that characterizes most studio thrillers."

- GATEWAY CINEFILES

"A brilliant sci-fi thriller...that catches you by surprise and lingers in the mind long after the final fade out. The most provocative film I saw at the Palm Springs International Film Festival."

- Robin E Simmons, DESERT STAR WEEKLY

"A riveting adventure of confusion and identity. Barrial has crafted a first-rate mystery-thriller with sci-fi elements [providing] twists-a-plenty, and Martin delivers an excellent, layered performance in the always challenging who-am-I role."

Clint O'Connor, CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER

"A landmark feature--a beautifully devised film that epitomizes the art of cinema."

- Crystal Harrell, PALM DESERT PATCH

"An intelligent, intriguing film. A cross between Memento and The Machinist, with a sci-fi twist. Very well shot, acted and produced. Seriously, it looks great. And it keeps you guessing all the way through. I most definitely recommend this film."

- Neil Weakley, COMEDY FILM NERDS

"An excellent, well-crafted film. A twisty little mystery...thought provoking, intelligent."

- Jonathan Weichsel, FILMRADAR

"Reminiscent of Memento...absorbing and satisfying. A suspenseful mystery about how much our memories shape us."

- HORROR YEAR BOOK

"Fresh and entertaining. A complex puzzle, different but in a similar manner as Christopher Nolan's Memento. Pig not only stands up to multiple viewings, but actually demands a second viewing to capture the story in its entirety. "

- Travis Keune, WE ARE MOVIE GEEKS

"A great psychological thriller with a surprising end [that] is completely unexpected and very clever. An emotional, turn-twisting story."

- Kay Shackleton, EXAMINER

"Looking for the next Memento, Seconds, or Primer?
The next twisty brain teaser flick to get excited for is Pig."

- I09.COM

(Cont'd.)

Quotes, cont'd.

"A mesmerizing sci-fi film...smartly written, directed and produced. In the genre of a very good Rod Serling or Nolan's Memento, this indie film keeps you guessing to the very end."

- John Compisi, SONOMA EXAMINER

"One of the most effective elements of this science-fiction thriller is its ability at keeping the audience guessing till the end. Rudolf Martin is captivating as a man searching for answers. His subtle performance recalls Guy Pearce in Memento. Thought provoking ideas...linger long after the final reveal takes place."

- Michael Haffner, DESTROY THE BRAIN

"Take it as a compliment, not a concern, that Henry Barrial's amnesia drama has been compared to Memento. It gives viewers the same edgy, tingling sensation of trying to piece together fractured clues."

- Howard Pousner, THE ATLANTA JOURNAL-CONSTITUTION

"A trippy indie film that starts weird and gets weirder, with hints of Memento."

- Amara D. Angelica, KURZWEILAI.NET

"Intriguing...in the Memento mold."

- Roger Moore, ORLANDO SENTINEL

"A mysterious premise that keeps us in [its] grip."

- John Serba, GRAND RAPIDS PRESS

"A pretty damn good film! Well shot, great acting, and the storyline was amazing."

- GRUESOME HERTZOGG

"An amazing movie. I loved it. Had me second guessing myself throughout."

- WEIRD REVIEW

"Bring(s) home the bacon by providing a nifty, novel explanation to the mystery."

- Susan Gegger, ST. LOUIS BEACON

"In my top picks, Pig will echo in your mind for a while. Evokes the anxiety of Memento."

- Michael Parsons, THE ROGERS REVUE

"The theme of how we are who we are is nicely explored. You will want to see this film."

- SORESPTS MOVIES

"Noteworthy...an ominous mystery with echoes of Memento."

- CREATIVE LOAFING ATLANTA